

Hazardous Waste Operations and Emergency Response (HAZWOPER) Awareness Seminar

TSC's HAZWOPER Awareness seminar primary objective is to provide an understanding of the importance of hazard recognition and safe work practices to those employed in environments where contact with potentially hazardous materials is likely. The training covers basic understanding of hazardous materials and how to appropriately provide initial response to emergencies resulting from these materials. The course covers the hazard communication rule and gives training and information that illustrates the different means employees can utilize to obtain details concerning the hazardous chemicals and materials they work with. This program provides general awareness training in all aspects of hazard communication.

At the conclusion of this seminar, students will have additional insight into the appropriate method of handling hazardous materials, importance of identifying substances, and human responses to exposure. Finally, course participants will be familiarized with signs and labels that are used to alert personnel of danger involving hazardous material. An immediate benefit of the HAZWOPER Awareness seminar is increased workplace safety and worker protection, having been provided the rudimentary tools and knowledge to incorporate what to do in case of emergencies and to use appropriate safety methods and work practice controls
