Confined Space Awareness Seminar Training

TSC's Confined Space Awareness Seminar delivers essential knowledge to any individual who may work around confined spaces. Examples of confined spaces include storage tanks, boilers, sewers, excavations, manholes, tunnels, and open top spaces more than four feet in depth, such as pits, vaults, and vessels.

The hazards that exist and that are met when entering and working in a confined space are capable of causing injury, illness and death. Often accidents occur because a hazard goes unrecognized. In effect, the confined space is a hazard, and must be treated as such. When working around a confined space it is necessary to be aware of the dangers that exist in and around the confined space area.

By participating in TSC's Confined Space Awareness seminar you will be helping to educate your employees in the safe practices when working around confined spaces. In addition, the Confined Space Awareness program can be used as an introduction to confined space entry practical training.
